pandora
yaki's under talk

"pandora" is a story about Hai and Kai a makeshift summer vacation. I wrote it with a "nature for a magazine" feeling in mind

Kai These two really are the exact opposites just about everything, but Hai unexpectedly is as good as Kai is at looking after people

Thinking back on it I realized that you can't understand the point of this story unless you've read volume 8... (sweats) For those who can bear with it please do wait to read this until after you've finished volume 8...(Sorry about that...)

Both of them are given the rookie treatment but since Hai joined Marvel one year prior he can't exactly be considered a brand new rookie I didn't mention that anywhere in the series though...(that was bad of me...) That's the reason why he behaved in such a naughty manner from the start Truthfully, I didn't have a clear setting in mind yet when the series first began ization so I wasn't able to insert a scene that could properly establish that fact That was a huge oversight We really is the definition of a hot headed youth... It didn't seem likely that I'd have the opportunity to mention it anywhere so I decided to quietly bring the matter up here. Speaking of which when we were researching the drama CD, Sakurai-san who plays Hai said, "I didn't think so when I first saw him in the manga but if a rookie like his really existed I'd hate his guts-" (lol) He really was like that from the start, wasn't he? Already so arrogant Really that child...
